

I am designing two insanely amazing spaces right now.

Two big meetings about both of them this morning, so let's fuel up.

I am obsessed with these Starbucks[®] Espresso Americanos right now.

They are rich and bold and delish.

Honestly so easy to start my day, especially when it's a busy day like today.

Today we are going with the Black Unsweet, but they also have this one which I like, which is the Milk and Sugar. It's already mixed in, ready to sip, and delish.

One of these projects is commercial and one is residential, which is really exciting.

I'm just putting a little bit of creamer in here and look at that.

And they're both out of state which is really fun, so let me know if you want to see more like behind the scenes as we get ready.

By the way, both of these are available at the grocery store in the refrigerated section.

I'm off to log onto meeting number one, wish me luck.
